Description

Formalizing an organization is a long and complicated process that requires legal assistance. Black Voters Matter has identified community partners who are various stages of the incorporation process. These community-based organizations require assistance with state-level incorporation and/or with filing the 501(c)(3) application. These groups are mainly in the southeast region.

Volunteer attorneys will aid the organization through the incorporation process, as well as the 501(c)(3) application. Volunteers will be provided with orientation and training before working on the matter.
