Description

The Center for Ethics and Public Service at the University of Miami School of Law has done the preliminary work to a systemic housing discrimination enforcement action against the City of Miami for its land use, zoning, eviction, and demolition practices in the Coconut Grove Village West, Miami's first black settlement. These practices have resulted in large-scale displacement, establishing 'disparate impact' and

'segregative effect' violations of the federal FHA. The complaint will be filed by the Fair Housing Equal Opportunity and Compliance Center of the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The pro bono firm would serve as a liaison between the community organization complainants and HUD, as the HUD Intake Division completes the drafting and filing of the complaint, and as the HUD Enforcement Division pursues its investigation and litigation.
