Description

These projects were referred by the NYC Bar Association's Office for Diversity, Equity, Inclusion & Belonging (ODEIB).

(1) Professionalism As a Racial Construct – This project is designed to help draft and create CLE that will look deeper into a point made by Leah Goodridge in her now viral essay about Racism as a Racial Construct in the legal industry. Read her essay here:

(2) Another project would be to create a CLE on the industry's ethical and moral responsibility to invest in the legal pipeline, especially to address historical exclusion of marginalized groups– we have research the summer associates can work from that focuses on data from NYC.

(3) Develop a CLE that focuses on what is being done legislatively and legally to address the rise in antisemitism in NYC -- we have a video from a panel that started the discussion but we would like to formalize it into a CLE.
