Being a poll worker is the first line of defense in protecting democracy and ensuring safe access to the polls to all people regardless of race or other identity. The goal of the Report is to provide a one-stop resource for member law firms and other multi-state organizations to quickly and effectively sign up to work the polls in their jurisdiction. By providing direct contact information for counties and municipalities across the country, the LFAA hopes to remove barriers to recruiting poll workers and inject more attorneys into the election process.
