

Communicating Cross-Culturally: What Teachers Should Know

< LFAA RESOURCES < THE EXCHANGES

The Exchange

06 May 2024

This article explores the need for teachers to be culturally responsive and competent as schools and classrooms become increasingly linguistically and culturally diverse. It further highlights five points of cultural difference with which all teachers should be aware when teaching students of diverse backgrounds.

LFAA is not a law firm and does not provide legal services or referrals. The contents of this resource do not constitute legal advice and the user of this resource agrees that no attorney-client relationship is being formed between the user and any person or entity, including LFAA and the lawyers or law firms that drafted the resource. LFAA makes no representation regarding the accuracy of any information included in this resource.

Attachments

Communicating Cross Culturally What Teachers Should Know

LFAA is not a law firm and does not provide legal services or referrals to individuals, legal services organizations or public interest agencies. If you believe you need a lawyer, please contact your local bar association or go to www.lawhelp.org.

